river, at the south end of the Highway bridge, and in the past year has more than doubled its membership. Dr. A. B. Bennett, commodore of the club, is now cruising on Chesapeake Bay aboard his yacht, the Oregon, and will not return until after the first of September.

The shore of the Potomac at Georgetown has many boat clubs, for smaller craft, to be used in the more shallow water above Georgetown. These clubs have been recently identified with Washington life for many years, the members using the club as the starting point for picnics up the river, where now both shores are dotted with camps. The Annapolis Boat Club, the Potomac Boat Club and the Washington Canoe Club are three of the best known of these clubs.

Many Washingtonians*Are Sailing for Europe

Fur prices are at their lowest level in our Annual Summer SALE OF FURS

THE underlying reason for low fur prices in August is that the sale of furs in midsummer permits the fur workers to keep their skilled help busy in an otherwise dull season. This is an economy for the manufacturer and effects a double benefit for the customer, because the finest of the season's pelts go into the making up of these fur coats and pieces—unhurried skill is employed and prices are substantially less than regular season figures.

We have taken the utmost possible advantage of these conditions on behalf of our fur customers

HUDSON SEAL COAT*Summer Sale $285

This Year August Is Surely the Time to Buy Furs

(1) We guarantee savings over last prices.

(2) You are assured of getting the finest skins.

(3) We will arrange deferred payments and store your purchase free until November 1.

"I'll look around," say many fur customers—but they come back and buy

Time and time again it happened in our Summer Fur Sale last week, so we are forced to the conclusion that our furs have the style and quality that appeals to discriminating women—we know that every piece of fur in our stock is priced as low as the present condition of the fur market permits—and that means lower than first-quality furs have been for years.
